

SOUTH CAROLINA NEWS

The Federal government on Wednesday began proceedings in Greenville to condemn 20,000 acres of land in Oconee county, to be reserved as a national forest. More than 8,500 notices will be served on persons throughout the United States.

A Greenville dispatch says that the South Carolina Cotton Manufacturers' association has decided to respect Attorney General People's opinion to the effect that cotton mill machinery may not be operated more than 60 hours a week, and test the correctness of the opinion in the supreme court.

Attorney General Peoples has made the following appointments of clerks in the prosecuting department during the next legislative session: J. C. Townsend, chief clerk, Miss Dorothy Arthur, Columbia; Miss Ruby Durrant, Bishopville; Miss Jessie Hughes, Union; B. R. Leake, Charleston; Miss Emma McTaggart, Florence; Miss Annette Parrott, Bishopville; Miss Rose Rich, Blackfoot; Miss Rebecca Sanders, Marion; Miss Kate A. Schroeder, Abbeville; Miss Harriet Sherman, Beaufort; Miss Virginia Simkins, Edgefield; Miss Flora Tobin, Allendale; W. L. Gleason, Springfield; Mrs. Othella Schumppert, Columbia; Miss Laura R. Smith, Anderson.

The state medical board has announced the following who have successfully passed the recent medical examination for license to practice: J. R. Bolling, Atlanta, Ga.; J. J. Clinton, Lancaster; L. W. Corbett, Bishop; Martin Crook, Baltimore, Md.; W. W. Curry, Rome, Ga.; R. E. Ellis, Travelers Rest; G. C. Freeman, Bluffton; R. K. Goring, Charleston; J. L. Greer, Atlanta, Ga.; M. L. ## "TURN HER LOOSE"

Market Man Wants Local Meat Dealer on Equality With Outsiders.

Editor Yorkville Enquirer:

You can't look out the door without seeing from one to half a dozen wagons selling beef and pork. There is a state law allowing any farmer to kill and sell his cows and hogs free of license, if they are born and raised on the place.

This law was intended to benefit the poor class of farmers; but it doesn't. None but the wealthy farmers get the benefit. Men who only have one or two animals would rather sell to the market man than kill them. Now, the town council can't give us protection from the rich and greedy farmer, the license should be taken off, and turn the town losses to the poor man can buy and sell and have a chance as well as his rich neighbor.

The town requires me to keep wire screens, and keep my meat house. I can get a license to sell. Why can't they tell the farmer how his meats must be handled also?

I keep my market open in the summer and lose money to accommodate my customers, and now when I come to make a few dollars, they buy from the wagons and its no cheaper, because you never get what you want. I will sell you as cheap as the wagon, and will come to me, pay the cash, and carry your meats home, so I won't have to deliver and collect.

Y. W. Sherer, Dec. 2, 1915.
